Dear Grandparents,

I am not intending this to necessarily be a news letter. The reason I am writing it is to wish you a very "Merry Christmas." Of course I won't get to be there for Christmas but you know where my heart and thoughts will be.

I don't know how I will spend Christmas day but I have no doubts but what I will have something special to eat. There is also a chance that I might get the day off from our usual

work.

I would sure hate
for those at home
to spoil their Christmas just because some of us like Ben
and I can't be there
so be sure and have Christmas.

I hope everything
is coming along alright
back there.

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year,
Donald.
