

Tuesday Evening

Dear Folks,

Well here I am in the 12th Co. of the 5th Regiment. And you will sure be shocked when I tell you what week they are in. This army sure does wierd things. They are in their second week. Another fellow who lost out at about the same time I did came over with me.

We aren't going to take all of this training but we are just going to spend the next 6 or 7 weeks till they catch up to where we were working around the company area here. In case you don't understand that complicated sentence: I am just going to spend the next several weeks.

I spent the afternoon
working in the supply room and loafing. I imagine that I will really be working when they really get started on us.

I guess that I will just not worry about it and consider myself
doing my part for the war. If that is what the army wants me to do that's what I will do.

Maybe it will be warmer anyway when I go out on the range and on bivouac.

I don't know what to ask you about. You will just have to tell me a little about what has happened. I am anxious to hear from you. I haven't heard since I got the telegram.

I hope you are all well.

Love.
